Once the signed contract and deposit have been received, your reservation will be confirmed as booked with deposit. The remaining balance, plus or minus any adjustments that need to be made after the event, will be re-invoiced and refunded or payable within 3-5 business days after the date of the event.

Cancellation & Catering Policies

- In addition to the scheduled hours of the event, our full service caterers will arrive early to Elephants to load events equipment and package food. They will then arrive on-site up to 3 hours before the event and will allot up to 2 hours to breakdown and clean-up. If additional service hours occur due to an extended length of the event or unforeseen labor needs, an updated invoice will be sent to you. Labor charges can include up to 4 hours in advance of the scheduled event time and 2-1/2 hours for breakdown and cleanup.
- We hope that the need to cancel your event does not arise, but if it should, 50% of the estimated total will be charged, as well as the cost of any special order items, if canceled with less than 5 business days notice.
- Please note that Elephants Catering has taken measures to ensure that your event will be executed completely as offered in the event of inclement weather. Our standard cancellation policy will apply should your event cancel due to the weather.
- Final guest count is required 10 business days prior to event date. After final confirmation, head count is not subject to reduction. If no guarantee is received, we will consider the guarantee to be the number of guests expected as stated above, with the final invoice reflecting food and estimated beverage for this number of guests expected.
- An 21% service charge (or current rate) is applied to all food and beverage. If the event location is in the state of Washington, sales tax will apply.
- For the safety and convenience of your guests, Elephants Delicatessen suggests a server remain onsite at events which require open flames (Sterno), food refrigeration, or food handling & preparation prior to time of service. For our clients electing to manage food handling or set-up for catering without an Elephants server, our clients assume responsibility for food safety and handling, including an adherence to all standard food safety practices from the time of pickup.

Alcohol Service Policies

These rules apply to private residences, public places, and event venues.

- All Elephants bartenders are OLCC licensed to legally serve alcohol. To stay in compliance with OLCC regulations, all alcoholic beverages must be served by a bartender; "self-serve" areas are not permitted. Additionally, one bartender must remain at each bar during all hours of service.

- For Beer and Wine bars, a minimum of two substantial food items must be available during all hours of alcohol service.
- In accordance with OLCC rules, our bartenders reserve the right to deny service to anyone displaying signs of intoxication, and reserve the right to conclude bar service at any time.
- When Elephants is providing a bartender and is therefore assuming the legal liability for the alcohol service at an event, only alcohol that is served by our licensed bartenders may be consumed.
- Outside or unauthorized alcohol or self serve alcohol is strictly prohibited.
- The first time unauthorized alcohol is discovered, the alcohol will be confiscated and disposed of. The client and venue contact will be informed that this is the only warning and if we discover outside alcohol again, the bar will be shut down. The second time, the alcohol will be confiscated and disposed of, the client and venue contact will be informed that the bar is closing for the duration of the event. The third time, Elephants Catering will break down the event and leave the premises after informing the client and the venue contact. No refunds will be issued.

We thank you for selecting Elephants Catering and we look forward to the pleasure of serving you and your guests.

Sincerely,

Sarah Woelfle
